IS HELD UP IN SENATE

Big Tangle Arises Over the Campbell Case.

GOES OVER TILL TO-DAY

Heavy Debate is Expected-The House Passes Gardner Annexation Bill and Debates Barksdale Pure Election Measure-Vote To-Day.

The Campbell-Crawford case was considered for the first time by the Senate yesterday, and on motion of Mr. Harvey, of Patrick, after a long and brilliant debate, the matter went by until to-day. The tangle, which arose was over the disposition which the Senate should make of the subject, was not altogether unexpected, as the press had already indicated that there would be a big fight.

Mr. McIlwaine, of Petersburg, was the chief speaker of the day, and his conton-tion was that, precedent or no precedent, he could not get his consent to vote for agreeing to the House resolutions and charges without some more official light on the subject.

was interrupted by a number of questions by his colleagues, but replied to all with characteristic force and ability. He did not desire to be put in the attitude of passing upon the merits of the House resolutions, or as to the guilt or innocence of the accussed judge, but he would not wote for concurrence without further investigation, because he did not believe it was right.

out further investigation, because he did not believe it was right.

Senators Keezell, Bruce, Anderson and Walker, did not see the matter in the light in which it was viewed by Mr. McIlwaine, but it went over before there was any heavy debate.

The House by a vote of 63 to 14 passed the Gardner annexation bill, which provides for the submission of questions relating to municipal expansion, and then devoted the remainder of the session to discussing the Barksdale pure elections bill. A vote will be reached on the latter measure at 1:80 c'elock to-day.

The Senate.

The Senate proceedings were opened with prayer by the Rev. Dr. W. T. Derieux.

Derieux.

The Lyle bill in regard to the employment of child labor in factories came back from the House with an amendment practically embracing the principle of the Cabell bill. There was no action taken in the matter. A question arose as to pairs, and members had different as to pairs, and members had different views on the subject. Mr. McIlwaine of views on the subject. Mr. McIlwaine offered a resolution providing that the Committee on Rules shall report a rule governing the pairs made by Senators.

This was unanimously adopted.

It was exactly 1:15 o'clock when the House resolution in relation to the Campbell case was reached. The Senators who were in the cloak-room hurried to their seats. The Senate Chamber and galleries were crowded with spectators. Clerk Button had a most attentive audience while he read the indictment prepared by the House and upon which it is recommended that Judge Campbell be tried for removal.

MR. M'ILWAINE'S SPEECH.

When Mr. McIlwaine arose to address the Senate conversation ceased. Mr. McIlwaine is generally regarded as one of the Senate conversation ceased. Mr. Mc-Ilwaine is generally regarded as one of the ablest lawyers in the State, as well as one of the broadest-minded and most practical men in the State. Whenever he talks the Senators give him the most careful hearing. He said that he was sorry that the resolution had come up at this time, for he was physically un-able to present his argument just as he would like to do.

Mr. McIlwaine soon got warmed up to his subject, and in that forceful way he has of presenting his views, he fairly riddled the action of the House in send-ing such a resolution to the Senate.

ing such a resolution to the Senate.

He stated that he was utterly unable to discuss the merits of this case. He did not know that Judge Campbell was or not guilty, and he did not think ther Senator know more about the of the case than himself. He demerits of the case than himself. He de-clared that he would follow precedent so long as precedent is good, but when it is bad he will depart from it. He would never consent to agreeing to a resolu-tion passed by the House, stating the grounds upon which a judge should be removed, when the Senate was presumed to know nothing whatsoever of the evi-dence in the case.

Mr. McIlwaine was loaded with law and with precedent, and he, while not and with precedent, and he, while not going into the merits of the case, con-tended that the House had acted pro-maturely in sending to the Senate causes for the removal of a judge, when not a single Senator knew that either one of these causes was true.

SHOULD PROCEED CAUTIOUSLY.

We do not know that either one of these causes upon which Judge Campbell is to be removed, if he is going to be removed, is true," said the Petersburg Senator. "Why, as far as we know, if Judge Campbell is to be removed, it may be for some other cause than those sent over for our concurrence."

Mr. McIlwaine was unwilling to place upon the records of the Senate causes for the removal of a public official when Senators had not a particle of evidence that a single one of the charges was true. He stated that he, for one, would vote to oust Judge Campbell if he should be convinced that the judge was guilty, but he was not going to vote to remove him upon evidence that he had not heard. "I have no personal or political Mclarette." "I have no personal or political feeling in this matter," said Mr. McIlwaine. "I have only that interes Molivaine. In have only that interest of one who is seeking to do his duty as a legislator. I want to guard the interests of the Commonwealth, but I am going to try and protect the interests of the private, or official, citizens of this State."

State."

SHOULD NOT CONCUR,

Mr. McIlwaine urged that the Senate not concur in this resolution, but send it back to the House, and let the House give Judge Campbell the notice required by the Constitution. If it is decided to remove the judge, then the House should send to the Senate the "actual," and not the "alleged," causes for the removal of Judge Campbell. When this should be done, then the Senate could act.

act.
"In other words," said Mr. McIlwaine,
"the House should finish its work.
When the matter is properly up to the Senate this body will do its duty, whether it involves the removal of Judge Campbell or his vindication. Let us proceed decently and in order about this thing,"

The Petersburg Senator was subjected to much cross-fire as to the legal and the parliamentary status of the case. Most of this questioning was done by persons who were seeking light and information as to the proper way to proceed. "'Ve ought not to concur in this resolution," said Mr. McIlwaine, "for the reason that we have nothing to do with the matter at the present stage of the case."

MR. WICKHAM DISAGREES. Mr. Wickham did not agree with the view of the matter taken by Mr. Mc-liwaine as to the notice to be served upon Judge Campbell. He thought the proper way to proceed was to concur in the House resolution.

House resolution.

Mr. Koezell looked at the matter through the same glasses.

"Are you prepared to vote as to the guilt. or the innocence of Clarence J. Campbell?" asked Mr. Mollwaine of Mr. Moreal.

advocated by Mr. Gardner, and both Messrs, Jennings and Featherston again spoke in its favor. They admitted that they had particular cases in mind, but did not think this fact should hurt the bill, as there were a great many similar ones. The pending question was ordered and the amendment of Mr. Caton was rejected. Messrs, Ryan and Davis thought the bill should be so amended as to require that the recommendation for the remittance of fines should come from the courts to the Governor.

Colonel Cabell spoke earnestly for the same line.

bill, and there were other speeches on the same line.

Mr. Cardwell moved to amend so that the applicant for relief should be required to file his application to the Governor through the courts, as was required when legislative relief could be granted.

All the amendments were rejected, save one offered by Mr. Gent to require that the Governor shall have satisfactory evidence that the case is a meritorious one and the bill was then passed; ayes, 60; noes, none.

GARDNER BILL PASSED.

GARDNER BILL PASSED.

The Barksdale Pure Elections bill came up as a special order, but before it was considered it was shoved aside by the annexation bills.

The Gardner bill and the Senate substitute were laid before the House, and Mr. Gardner called the pending question. The former was passed upon roil call—ayes, 53; noes, 14. The vote was as follows:

Ayes—Messirs, Armstrong, C. Conway Baker, W. W. Baker, Biscoe, George C. "I certainly am not," replied Mr. Kee"Then why perpertrate this wrong upon a man as to whose guilt or innocence we have not a particle of evidence?" asked the Petersburg Senator. "I am talking to you frankly and from the standpoint of what I regard right and justice."

Mr. McIlwaine. For the life of him he could not see that harm could be done Judge Campbell by simply stating the charges upon which he was to be tried. He looked upon this resolution just as he would upon an indictment.

Warmed up by questions fired at him, Mr. McIlwaine, tip-teeing, laid down this proposition; "The Senate can do what it pleases. It is simply a question of proceeding rightly or wrongly. The Senate can do what it pleases. It is simply a question of proceeding rightly or wrongly. The Senate has absolutely no information on this subject. I am fighting for what I think is right and justice. I care not what others may say or think, but when I believe, and know I am right, I have the manhood to stand up here in the Senate and state my position."

The theme of Mr. McIlwaine's talk was that the Senate had not the right to form charges without having heard evidence.

MR. ANDERSON'S VIEW.

MR. ANDERSON'S VIEW.

Mr. Anderson thought Mr. McIlwaine was partly right and partly wrong in the yiew he had taken of the case. The Richmond Scaator contended ably that when the Constitution contemplated that notice of removal should be given by the General Assembly it was impossible for one house to proceed alone. It was absurd, he said, to proceed in any other way than both branches proceeding together in serving notice. Mr. Anderson said that concurring in this resolution would not mean an expression of opinion as to the guilt or innocence of Judge Campbell, but it would simply be serving notice that the General Assembly would proceed to investigate alleged causes for removal.

Mr. Harvey straightened out the tangle by moving to pass the matter by until to-day. He said grave questions had been raised and he was not prepared to vote upon some of them. This motion was ununimously adopted.

It was a real Mann bill day in the House, however, a great batch of petitions having been offered on this subject, Chief among them was one from the "American Boys' Club" of this city, and others came from Danville, Berryville, Shenandoah, Norfolk, Loudoun, Williamsburg, New Kent and Frederick. Capt. W. M. McAllister, formerly a member of the House from Alleghany, Highland and Bath, was on the floor, and was warmly greeted. Under suspension of the rules the House passed Scrate bill to substitute the Corporation Commission for the Board of Public Works, and the bill allowing the Governor to remit fines in certain cases was taken up. Mr. Caton moved to limit the power of the executive to remitting lines where the party seeking such relief has either died or shoome permanently disabled. Mr. Caton spoke for his amendment, and it was opposed by Messrs. Jennings and Featherston. The bill originated in the Senate and was offered to meet constitutional condulurs which new former of the Senate and was offered to meet constitutional condulurs which new former of the Senate and was offered to meet constitutional condulurs which new former of the Senate and was offered to meet constitutional condulurs. BRING DR. YOUNG HERE

May Exchange Pulpits With Rev. W. B. Beauchamp.

AN INTERESTING REPORT

Said That Mr. Beauchamp Will Go to Court-Street, Lynchburg, and Dr. Young Will Come to Broad-Street Here.

Notwithstanding the fact that several months intervene before another session of the Virginia Conference of the M. E. Church, South, there is already floating about a rumor of unusual interest and importance, if true, affecting two of the most prominent pastors and churches in

In brief, the rumor, which was given yesterday by a well known local minister, who declares that it is thoroughly good and straight, is to the effect that there will be, with the next Conference, an exchange of pastoral charges between the Rev. W. B. Beauchamp, of the Broad Street Church, of this city, and the Rev. W. J. Young, D. D., of Court Street, Lynchburg. The underground currents, said this minister, are already being set in motion to bring about this change.

said this minister, are already being set in motion to bring about this change.

WILL HAVE TO MOVE.

As is experienced regularly each year, it is practically futile to attempt to predict what a Conference will do, and particularly when such large churches as the above are involved. The present rumor, however, suggests so important a movement that it is given for what it is worth. That the rumor exists is, at least, a fact; whether or not its content is equally a fact is another matter.

Both Dr. Young and Mr. Beauchmap equally a fact is another matter.

Both Dr. Young and Mr. Beauchmap have served the four years, after which a minister in the Methodist Itinerary has to change his field of work. Both will have to move next November when Conference meets again, and this is what probably gives rise to the report that they will simply exchange and go ahead as usual.

probably gives rise to the roport that they will simply exchange and go ahead as usual.

THE TWO PASTORS.

Dr. Young is regarded by many as the foremost Methodist minister in the State of Virginia. He is a man of unusual ability, and is eloquent and forceful in the pulpit. Like the pastor, the church of which he has charge ranks first among Methodist churches in the State. It is the veritable plum in the Conference, rivaled only by Centenary, Richmond, and Epworth, Norfolk. And herein rises an objection to the rumor. It is held by some that when Dr. Young moves, as he will have to do, it will be to one of these two powerful churches—Centenary or Epworth. He has already served at Epworth four years, and at Park Place, this city, four years.

Mr. Beauchamp is rounding up a fine period of work at Broad Street. He is one of the younger ministers in the Conference, but he is recognized as one of the leaders. Since entering upon his ministerial career he has steadily risen, until now he is pastor of one of the largest churches in the denomination in the State.

ministorial career he has steadily risen, until now he is pastor of one of the largost churches in the denomination in the State.

Should these two really exchange pulpits, it would thus place Mr. Beauchamp in charge of the biggest church in the conference, and would bring to Richmond the distinguished pastor of that church who is so well known here, and so generally beloved.

MINISTER TALKS.

The local Methodist minister who made the above statement yesterday was raliled by what appears to be several unlikely features of them. But he was so exceedingly strongly impressed with the accuracy of what he said that he told the newspaper man to refer the "brethren" to him if they wanted to call them into question.

"There is reason to believe, I tell you." he said, "that this very thing is going to happen. The underground currents are beginning to work, It is there the bishop does the moring but we have to assist Providence, you know. So we begin to long aways ahead so as to have everything ready for the bishop when he comes. This thing about Brother Beauchamp and Brother Young is straight. You can tell the brethens so, "Amen."
